TERRIFIC STORM DOES DAMAGE IN 4 STATES

LEAVES TRAIL OF DEATH AND PROPERTY DAMAGE

GALE AT TIMES REACHED VELOCITY OF 75 MILES AN HOUR

TOUCHED MISSISSIPPI, ILLINOIS, INDIANA AND KENTUCKY

The known dead in Friday's storm are:
Dorothy Hanley, 12, Maunie, Ill.
Bernice Tucker, 10, Maunie.
Mrs. Amos Newman, Maunie.
Marjorie Hargraves, 4, Cape Girardeau, Mo.
Buddy Hargraves, 3, Cape Girardeau.
Mrs. Mary Nolan, 65, Fort Branch, Ind.
William Thrasher, 43, Louisville, Ky.
Roy Litter, 21, Milton, Ky.
Mrs. Thompson, Benton, Mo.
Mrs. Albert Stoodt, 50, Mansfield, Ohio.

(By United Press)

A terrific windstorm, rapidly diminishing in force, swept northeastward across Lake Erie today after leaving a trail of death and heavy property damage in its path across four middle western states.

The storm, which at times reached a velocity of 75 miles an hour, originated in southern Missouri yesterday afternoon, whipped across southern Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky and after striking lightly in several Ohio cities, was believed to be passing out over the lake.

The toll of known dead stood at 11 today. Restoration of communication in the affected areas, however, was expected to increase the number of victims. The number of injured was unestimated.

Red Cross aid was being dispatched to the town of Maunie, Ill., which was directly in the path of the storm. An emergency call for 24 doses of anti-tetanus serum was received at St. Louis headquarters. The request said Maunie medical authorities were unable to care for the large number of injured. Three persons were killed.

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, who took off last night from Cleveland for an eastern airport, was forced to return within 25 minutes. He remained in Cleveland over night.

All sections of northern Ohio reported a deluge of rain which broke all January records.

Illinois, Kentucky and Missouri suffered the greatest loss of life, three being killed in each state. One person was killed at Fort Branch, Ind.

Rising out of the southwest the storm first struck in the southeastern corner of Missouri near Cape Girardeau where Marjorie, 4, and Buddy Hargraves, 3, were killed. A Mrs. Thompson was killed at Benton, Mo.

Veering northward the tornado whipped across southern Illinois, striking at Maunie, Texas City, Carmi, Norris City, Anna and Chris City.

Three persons were killed at Maunie where two school houses, a grain elevator and several residences were destroyed. The bodies of Bernice Tucker, 10, and Dorothy Hanley, 12, were removed from the wreckage of the school. The principal, Charles Moore, and a teacher, Mrs. Ray Roser, and 12 students were injured.

Farmers near Maunie reported a second storm followed shortly after the first twister struck. Mrs. Amos Newman was killed in the second storm. Its effect was felt as far north as the Wisconsin state line.

The storm struck Indiana near Fort Branch. Mrs. David Nolan, 65, was killed. Princeton, Madison and Evansville also felt the storm's force.

Crossing the Ohio river, the storm mounted in velocity and hit near Lexington. William Thrasher, 43, was blown from the Ohio river bridge near Louisville and drowned. Roy Litter, 21, and Clinton Mahoney, 24, of Milton, Ky., were drowned when the skiff in which they were rowing capsized.

Several houses were reported demolished at Louisville and Lexington. Telegraph and telephone communication was inoperative along a large section of the river valley.

From the river valley the storm pursued a winding course across Ohio, missing larger towns and affecting only northern shore cities.

Senate In Controversy Over West's Nomination

SEEKS SMOKING TOBACCO FOR LEGISLATORS

Jefferson City, Jan. 19.—(U.P.)—Representative Putnam yesterday introduced into the Missouri house a resolution which would provide each of the 150 members with "one package of his favorite smoking tobacco a day, the cost to be charged to the contingent fund of the house." The measure was referred to the committee on swamp lands.

WATER CARRIER'S BANDIT SON AS NEW MONARCH

NOW RULER OF AFGHAN PEOPLE.
PEACE APPARENTLY REIGNING

HABIBULLA KHAN IS NOW MASTER OF CAPITAL CITY, KABUL

London, Jan. 19.—(U.P.)—With a water carrier's bandit son as their monarch, the Afghan people apparently were ready today to settle down to a peaceful era after a month of revolution which overthrew two kings of royal blood.

Habibulla Khan, formerly known among his outlawed followers as Bacha Sakoa, meaning "son of a water carrier," was master of the capital city, Kabul, today having established his headquarters on Bagh-bula Hill overlooking the city.

Bacha Sakoa returned to his family name as more in keeping with the dignity of royalty when he placed on his head the crown that Amanullah and the latter's brother, Inayatullah, had lost within a week. He was understood to have the support of the people and the mullahs—the priests—and had undertaken to strengthen his government and restore order to the disturbed country.

Oddly, the new king's name is the same as that of the father of Amanullah and Inayatullah, who was assassinated at Jelalabad in 1919. Amanullah succeeded to the throne of his father, the first Habibulla Khan.

Bacha Sakoa long had been an enemy of Amanullah and was banished from the country in December. He won the confidence of the poorer people, however, by posing as a sort of Robin Hood, robbing the rich to help the poor.

Recent developments have proven that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon will be retained for a time and it is virtually certain the youthful assistant attorney general, William J. Donovan, will get a cabinet post. Both are tried in the government service.

So is Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, who will remain in the department with the general expectation he will be elevated when Mellon retires.

Senator Charles McNary of Oregon, veteran legislator and chairman of the senate agriculture committee, is receiving serious consideration for Secretary of Agriculture, it is learned. McNary has directed battles for agricultural legislation from the inside and knows the temper of congress.

Louis S. Cates, of Salt Lake City, well-known mining engineer and friend of Hoover, is receiving wide endorsement in the west for secretary of interior. He has come into contact with the problems with which that department deals.

Likewise, Hoover undoubtedly will appoint a man close to organized labor if not from its ranks for secretary of labor. Several such are under consideration.

It is the general view he will be his own secretary of state and will select a man who can administer the department capably.

Hoover had no conferences scheduled today but a few visitors were expected.

Washington, Jan. 19.—President-elect Hoover declined today to discuss reports that he had invited Charles E. Hughes to be secretary of state in the new cabinet.

It is understood, here, however, there is little likelihood that Hughes will appear in the incoming cabinet. Whatever has actually taken place it is the understanding here that the appointment of Hughes as a member of the international court of justice

Herbert Hoover's Cabinet Will Be One Of "Insiders" Veterans and Experienced Men

LONG IN EYES OF PUBLIC AS GOOD OFFICIALS

THERE WILL BE NO "SURPRISES" THAT THOSE APPOINTED WILL BE UNKNOWN

NO WOMEN WILL BE SELECTED FOR THE NEW PRESIDENT'S CABINET

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Jan. 19.—Herbert Hoover's cabinet will be one of "insiders," that is, men either veterans in service or of direct, first-hand acquaintance with the particular problems of the departments to which they are appointed.

Most of the cabinet will be men long in the public eye as officials. It is learned from a survey of those being considered for the various posts. There will be no "surprises" in the sense that those appointed will be unknown. It will be a cabinet of experienced blood.

There will be no women in Hoover's cabinet, despite the contribution women made to Hoover's election. The ban on women grows from Hoover's intention to select cabinet members largely from those experienced in federal government matters.

Hoover's view of a cabinet is a group of lieutenants, not a super-council. He intends to be the big boss, himself. He will seek information, therefore will want men well-informed, but he will direct operations himself.

Hoover will have no "kitchen cabinet," that little group of advisers behind the scenes in many administrations. The cabinet will act in that capacity for him, though it will be much more than that.

Recent developments have proven that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon will be retained for a time and it is virtually certain the youthful assistant attorney general, William J. Donovan, will get a cabinet post. Both are tried in the government service.

So is Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, who will remain in the department with the general expectation he will be elevated when Mellon retires.

VARMINT HUNT IN PROGRESS NEAR AURORA, MO.

Aurora, Mo., Jan. 19.—(U.P.)—A panther, whose latest act of terrorism was to bite off the head of a dog, was the object of a widespread varmint hunt that began in the Coon Creek neighborhood. Hunters have searched almost a week for the animal that has brought terror to several small communities near here. Citizens feared to go out at night and the animal made nightly raids on livestock. Plans for another hunt were made after an unsuccessful expedition last night that ended when the panther turned on the head of a dog, leader of an air-dale pack.

has precluded his return to Washington official life.

President-elect Hoover is known to hold former Secretary Hughes in the highest regard and the association between them probably will continue to be close.

The vast international experience of Hughes is expected to make him one of the influential advisers in the new administration although an official one.

BANDITS IN SECOND SPECTACULAR HOLDUP IN CHICAGO TODAY

Chicago, Jan. 19.—(U.P.)—Bandits made the second spectacular holdup here within 24 hours today, when three of them invaded the general offices of the Cuneo Press, on the sixth floor of an office building, forced 50 employees, including 30 girls, to bow over their desks with hands up, and took $5,000.

The robbery occurred at 22nd and Canal street, not far from the Franklin Trust and Savings bank, which was the scene of a gun battle yesterday between three robbers and a 75-year-old negro guard.

THEODORE A. BURROWS DIES AFTER OPERATION

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 19.—(U.P.)—Theodore A. Burrows, 71, lieutenant-governor of Manitoba, died here shortly before midnight Friday following an operation for appendicitis.

ARMED REVOLT BREAKS OUT IN GUATEMALA

AT LEAST TWO PROVINCES HAVE BEEN CAPTURED BY REBEL FORCES

REVOLT BEGAN ON JANUARY 17, TROOPS BEING RUSHED TO SCENE

Washington, Jan. 19.—(U.P.)—An armed revolt has broken out in Guatemala and at least two provinces have been captured by rebel forces, according to reports reaching authoritative sources here today.

The revolt began on Jan. 17, according to the reports. The province of Suchitepequez and Retalhuleu are said to be under rebel control.

(Troops are being rushed from Guatemala City to the west coast and half of the country had been placed on war-time footing, the reports said. A portion of the international railway was reported taken over by rebels. A rigid censorship has been invoked in Guatemala, and reports of the uprising are meager.

Guatemala City, Guatemala, Jan. 19.—Government troops advanced today against revolutionists on the west coast who have captured two cities there.

Headed by Col. John F. Rivas, army officer, insurgents captured the garrison at Retalhuleu after five hours' fighting. The rebels then took possession of the nearby city of Mezatenango, where the military commander apparently surrendered without a fight.

REPORT CRITICIZES SECRETARY WORK

Washington, Jan. 19.—(U.P.)—A report criticizing former Secretary of Interior Hubert Work and the justice department for their connection with the Salt Creek royalty case, was submitted to the senate public lands committee today by Senator Thomas J. Walsh, democrat, Montana. The committee ordered the report printed and will consider it Monday.

GOVERNMENT AND RED CROSS AID IS SENT TO CUMANA

Caracas, Venezuela, Jan. 19.—(U.P.)—Government and Red Cross aid was dispatched today to Cumana where 201 were reported killed, 1,000 injured, and thousands made homeless in an earthquake Thursday. Gen. Jose Garibi, governor of the state of Sucre, of which Cumana is the capital, asked the government to furnish relief.

4 MEN UNDER ARREST FOR ALLEGED KILLING

PETE GULLO AND WIFE LENA ARE SHOT TO DEATH AT RAVENNA, OHIO

DOUBLE MURDER CULMINATED FEUD IN TRI-COUNTY BOOT-LEGGING RING

Ravenna, O., Jan. 19.—(U.P.)—Four men were under arrest here today in connection with the killing of Pete Gullo and his wife Lena who were shot to death at their home last night.

The double murder culminated a feud in a tri-county bootlegging ring, according to Sheriff J. R. Ferry who said members of the ring were quarreling over price-cutting.

The Gullios were killed by two men who, posing as friends, were admitted to the Gullo home last night. After shaking hands all around, the men, without warning, backed against a wall and began firing. After shooting the Gullios the men fired at Joseph Roneato, an employee of Gullo's, who leaped through the rear door and escaped.

One of the men under arrest, according to Sheriff Ferry, is head of the liquor ring but he is not believed to have participated in the killings. Gullo was shot six times. His wife died in a hospital after naming one of the gunmen. She did not recognize the others.

Ferry believed the gunmen intended to kill Mrs. Gullo and Roneato to prevent them from telling what they knew concerning the ring's operation.

TRIED TO BEAT THE RACES IN NEW WAY

New Orleans, La., Jan. 19.—(U.P.)—Francis Murray, New York, today was under 30-day jail sentence and ordered to pay a $25 fine for attempting to beat the races in a "brand new way."

Race officials said Murray pasted numerals of winning horses over the numbers of losing tickets and presented them for payment. The trick was "brand new," police said.

ATTACKS FRAUDULENT INFLUENZA REMEDIES

Washington, Jan. 19.—(U.P.)—A warning to the public that all preparations and drugs advertised as influenza cures are fraudulent was issued today by the agriculture department. Proceedings will be taken under the food and drugs act wherever possible, the department said, against advertisers of fraudulent influenza remedies.

ZEPPELIN WORKS MAY GAIN SUBSIDY

Berlin, Jan. 19.—(U.P.)—A report was circulated here today that the German government has granted a subsidy of 2,000,000 marks (about $475,000) to the Friedrichshafen Zeppelin works, presumably for construction of a new dirigible. The Friedrichshafen Zeppelin works was the builder of the Graf Zeppelin.

SECRECY EVEN MORE UNUSUAL THAN WAR TIMES

NAVAL CRUISER BILL IS THRUST FAR INTO SENATE BACK-GROUND

ALSO CHALLENGE OF MELLON'S AUTHORITY OVER PROHIBITION

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Jan. 19.—In secrecy, more unusual even than of war times, the senate resumed its controversy over the nomination of Secretary of Interior West today.

The naval cruiser bill, the challenge of Secretary of Treasury Mellon's authority over prohibition and all other pending matters were thrust into the background while the West matter was fought out. A vote of confirmation was expected before night.

In the first two and a half hours of debate late yesterday, the opposition was blocked at every turn. First they demanded the nomination be considered in open session. They were defeated overwhelmingly. Next they sought to have the roll call on the first vote made public and lost again. Aroused by these two rebukes they attempted to force reconsideration of the earlier votes but were unsuccessful even in that plea.

The votes emphasized the majority which West now controls and which will bring about his confirmation unless the opposition is able to change the situation unexpectedly.

Usually senators shake out of their twisting doors and tell confidentially to their friends at least the general facts which occur in executive session. However, warnings have been given senators that if they do not keep silent concerning the pending executive business they may be subjected to the archaic rule which permits expulsion of a senator revealing executive business.

Those handling West's fight are insisting on the secrecy application and other extraordinary methods of parliamentary procedure in order to bring a vote at the earliest possible moment and to prevent the opposition from stirring up any outside interests.

The investigation of West by the public lands committee was opened at West's request and the vote of 9 to 4 by which his nomination was favorably reported was also made public.

The house which is up with its business was in adjournment over the week-end.

Washington, Jan. 19.—While progressives of the farming regions battled against the nomination of Secretary of Interior West in a continued closed session of the senate today, his leaders were claiming a majority of about 49 to 27 in favor of confirmation.

The progressives, led by Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, were arguing in favor of a minority committee report presented in the secret session by Chairman Nye of the senate public lands committee, holding West unfit to rule over the natural resources of the nation.

The report based its objections on the ground that West long had been a holder of public utility stocks and that despite his denials he was generally reputed to have friendly connections with the interests of Samuel Insull, the Illinois public utilities owner.

The majority report of the committee urges West's confirmation on his promises not to sit in judgment on Insull's bid for the Cumberland Falls, Kentucky, power site or any other applications for leases in which Insull has an interest.

The 40 to 27 margin claimed by West's friends was the margin by which the progressives were defeated yesterday in their effort to force reconsideration of the nomination in open session.

HARVARD TRADITION MAY BE ABOLISHED

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 19.—(U.P.)—The annual junior prom, a Harvard tradition, may be abolished this year because of a lack of interest and financial losses resulting from the last prom.

Heartbroken over the fate which took away her husband-to-be just on the eve of their marriage, Charlotte Bruckner, 19, collapsed as body of Sergeant Patrick Conroy was lowered into grave in Calvary Cemetery, New York. The dead soldier was one of eight fliers killed when a big Army transport crashed Royalton, Pa.

CHARGES THAT 'RADIO TRUST' IS EXISTING

Washington, Jan. 19.—(U.P.)—Charges that a "radio trust" exists in the United States was made to the house merchant marine committee today by Oswald C. Schutte, secretary of the Radio Protective association.

He said the trust had restricted radio to protect land communication systems and urged specific legislative instructions to the federal radio commission to deny licenses to companies limiting the use of wave lengths assigned them.

DRIVEN OUT OF DOORS IN PAJAMAS

Lawrenceville, N. J., Jan. 19.—(U.P.)—Forty-four students and three masters were driven out of doors in their pajamas early today when fire originating in the boiler room of Daves house at the Lawrenceville school for boys here destroyed the structure. Fifteen students, trapped by the flames leaped from second-floor windows to the ground. The hall was the gift of Vice President Charles G. DOUBLE MURDER CULMINATED FEUD IN TRI-COUNTY BOOT-LEGGING RING

Ravenna, O., Jan. 19.—(U.P.)—Four men were under arrest here today in connection with the killing of Pete Gullo and his wife Lena who were shot to death at their home last night.

The double murder culminated a feud in a tri-county bootlegging ring, according to Sheriff J. R. Ferry who said members of the ring were quarreling over price-cutting.

The Gullios were killed by two men who, posing as friends, were admitted to the Gullo home last night. After shaking hands all around, the men, without warning, backed against a wall and began firing.

After shooting the Gullios the men fired at Joseph Roneato, an employee of Gullo's, who leaped through the rear door and escaped.

One of the men under arrest, according to Sheriff Ferry, is head of the liquor ring but he is not believed to have participated in the killings.

Gullo was shot six times. His wife died in a hospital after naming one of the gunmen. She did not recognize the others.

Ferry believed the gunmen intended to kill Mrs. Gullo and Roneato to prevent them from telling what they knew concerning the ring's operation.

TRIED TO BEAT THE RACES IN NEW WAY

New Orleans, La., Jan. 19.—(U.P.)—Francis Murray, New York, today was under 30-day jail sentence and ordered to pay a $25 fine for attempting to beat the races in a "brand new way."

Race officials said Murray pasted numerals of winning horses over the numbers of losing tickets and presented them for payment. The trick was "brand new," police said.

ATTACKS FRAUDULENT INFLUENZA REMEDIES

Washington, Jan. 19.—(U.P.)—A warning to the public that all preparations and drugs advertised as influenza cures are fraudulent was issued today by the agriculture department. Proceedings will be taken under the food and drugs act wherever possible, the department said, against advertisers of fraudulent influenza remedies.

ZEPPELIN WORKS MAY GAIN SUBSIDY

Berlin, Jan. 19.—(U.P.)—A report was circulated here today that the German government has granted a subsidy of 2,000,000 marks (about $475,000) to the Friedrichshafen Zeppelin works, presumably for construction of a new dirigible. The Friedrichshafen Zeppelin works was the builder of the Graf Zeppelin.

SECRECY EVEN MORE UNUSUAL THAN WAR TIMES

NAVAL CRUISER BILL IS THRUST FAR INTO SENATE BACKGROUND

ALSO CHALLENGE OF MELLON'S AUTHORITY OVER PROHIBITION

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Jan. 19.—In secrecy, more unusual even than of war times, the senate resumed its controversy over the nomination of Secretary of Interior West today.

The naval cruiser bill, the challenge of Secretary of Treasury Mellon's authority over prohibition and all other pending matters were thrust into the background while the West matter was fought out. A vote of confirmation was expected before night.

In the first two and a half hours of debate yesterday, the opposition was blocked at every turn. First they demanded the nomination be considered in open session. They were defeated overwhelmingly. Next they sought to have the roll call on the first vote made public and lost again. Aroused by these two rebukes they attempted to force reconsideration of the earlier votes but were unsuccessful even in that plea.

The votes emphasized the majority which West now controls and which will bring about his confirmation unless the opposition is able to change the situation unexpectedly. Usually senators speak of "winning doors and tell confidentially to their friends at least the general facts which occur in executive session. However, warnings have been given senators that if they do not keep silent concerning the pending executive business they may be subjected to the archaic rule which permits expulsion of a senator revealing executive business.

Those handling West's fight are insisting on the secrecy application and other extraordinary methods of parliamentary procedure in order to bring a vote at the earliest possible moment and to prevent the opposition from stirring up any outside interests.

The investigation of West by the public lands committee was opened at West's request and the vote of 9 to 4 by which his nomination was favorably reported was also made public.

The house which is up with its business was in adjournment over the week-end.

Washington, Jan. 19.—While progressives of the farming regions battled against the nomination of Secretary of Interior West in a continued closed session of the senate today, his leaders were claiming a majority of about 40 to 27 in favor of confirmation.

The progressives, led by Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, were arguing in favor of a minority committee report presented in the secret session by Chairman Nye of the senate public lands committee, holding West unfit to rule over the natural resources of the nation.

The report based its objections on the ground that West long had been a holder of public utility stocks and that despite his denials he was generally reputed to have friendly connections with the interests of Samuel Insull, the Illinois public utilities owner.

The majority report of the committee urges West's confirmation on his promises not to sit in judgment on Insull's bid for the Cumberland Falls, Kentucky, power site or any other applications for leases in which Insull has an interest.

The 40 to 27 margin claimed by West's friends was the margin by which the progressives were defeated yesterday in their effort to force consideration of the nomination in open session.

Annual Business Meeting Conducted; Mesdames Wm. Olson, H. M. Olson Entertain

ACTIVITIES PLANNED

Gladys Engbretson Named President, Rose Gudmundson Selected Vice President

The Junior Young Peoples society of the Bethlehem Lutheran church met last evening at the church for its annual business meeting, entertained by Mrs. William Olson and Mrs. H. M. Olson.

Reports of the activities during the year were very gratifying, and showed fine progress.

Important decisions were taken as regards the work of the society, and enthusiasm evinced for continued success of the societies endeavors.

The Juniors decided also to place a new set of 100 hymn books in the church.

Election of officers resulted as follows:

President—Gladys Engbretson.
Vice President—Rose Gudmundson.
Secretary—Wilfred Anderson.
Treasurer—Borghild Olson.
Program committee—Marion Olson, Raymond Johnson, Gladys Gudmundson, Maurice Larson, Howard Halvorson.

The society decided to put on a sale of home made candies in connection with the Men's Lutesk Supper—Friday, February 1.

A committee of four—Marion Olson, Harriet Halvorson, Mildred Olson and Agnes Olson were elected to take charge of the sale.

Lowell Camp Fire Girls

The Camp Fire girls of the Lowell school will have a party Saturday evening, starting 7:30 o'clock at the Lowell school.

At the meeting held on Wednesday evening, chairman and committee in charge of the party were elected. Nine members were present.

Best for Windbreak

Trees which have dense foliage that is retained over winter and whose lower branches hang on for a period of years are the best for windbreaks. These are spruce, fir, hemlocks, Douglas fir, arbutus, cedars and Monterey cypress. The white pines are nearly as good and Scotch pine is very effective up to twelve or fifteen years of age.

Nujol also softens the waste matter and brings about normal evacuation. It is harmless; contains no drugs or medicine. It won't cause gas or griping pains, or affect the stomach or kidneys. Every corner druggist has Nujol. Make sure you get the genuine. Look for the Nujol bottle with the label on the back that you can read right through the bottle. Don't delay, get Nujol today.

Smoothness

Never Before Achieved in a Low-Priced Automobile

Of all the exceptional performance qualities resulting from the advanced design of the new Chevrolet Six, none is more impressive than its remarkably smooth operation.

Although the new six-cylinder motor develops 32% more power with correspondingly higher speed and faster acceleration . . . although it delivers better than twenty miles to the gallon of gasoline—

—its outstanding feature of performance is a degree of smoothness never before achieved in any low-priced automobile.

To achieve such remarkable performance in a car of such low price, Chevrolet spent years in development work. Over 100 different engines were designed, built and subjected to over a million miles of testing at the General Motors Proving Ground before the present motor was adopted. The new power plant has many unusual features, such as the new acceleration pump, the new gasoline pump and filter, and the new automatic lubrication of the rocker arms.

The four-wheel brakes have been newly designed to assure positive, quiet action. Steering has been made easier. And the new Fisher bodies with their new lines, new colors, adjustable driver's seats and new appointments represent new heights of style, distinction, comfort and value.

We extend you a cordial invitation to see and drive the new Chevrolet Six. We believe it an experience that every motorist should have—and we want you to know how finely the new Chevrolet Six is built and how smoothly it performs!

25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

January 19, 1904

Dr. Nicholson is confined to his home with sickness.

Mrs. B. A. Wright left this afternoon for Minneapolis where she will visit for a short time with friends and relatives.

Mrs. P. J. Murphy and little daughter returned this afternoon from the coast where they have been visiting with Mrs. Lightfoot for a short time.

H. B. Carmichael will leave tonight for Minneapolis where he will attend the wedding tomorrow night of his brother, Dan Carmichael, to a Miss Clark of that city.

There was a gathering of the clans at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mons Mahlum last evening. Those present were: J. M. Elder, Con O'Brien, C. D. Johnson and Dr. Camp. The evening was spent in playing "smear."

The Dispatch list of eligibles in matrimonial lines today devoted a column to William Whitmore Bane.

The funeral of Conrad Poppenberg was held this morning from the St. Francis Catholic church.

Dennis Harrington of Minneapolis, employed by the Pine Tree Lumber company in one of their camps in the Crooked Lake country, yesterday sustained injuries while at work skidding which resulted in his death at St. Joseph's hospital this morning.

Chas. Remus, who is still confined to the N. P. Sanitarium, received the sad news today that his mother died yesterday at Elroy, Wis. He will not be able to attend the funeral.

BETHLEHEM YOUNG PEOPLES ELECTION

Annual Business Meeting Conducted: Mesdames Wm. Olson, H. M. Olson Entertain

ACTIVITIES PLANNED

Gladys Engbretson Named President, Rose Gudmanson Selected Vice President

The Junior Young Peoples society of the Bethlehem Lutheran church met last evening at the church for its annual business meeting, entertained by Mrs. William Olson and Mrs. H. M. Olson.

Reports of the activities during the year were very gratifying, and showed fine progress.

Important decisions were taken as regards the work of the society, and enthusiasm evinced for continued success of the societies endeavors.

The Juniors decided also to place a new set of 100 hymn books in the church.

Election of officers resulted as follows:

President—Gladys Engbretson. Vice President—Rose Gudmanson. Secretary—Wilfred Anderson. Treasurer—Borghild Olson.

Program committee—Marion Olson, Raymond Johnson, Gladys Gudmanson, Maurice Larson, Howard Halvorson.

The society decided to put on a sale of home made candies in connection with the Men's Lutesk Supper—Friday, February 1.

A committee of four—Marion Olson, Harriet Halvorson, Mildred Olson and Agnes Olson were elected to take charge of the sale.

Lowell Camp Fire Girls

The Camp Fire girls of the Lowell school will have a party Saturday evening, starting 7:30 o'clock at the Lowell school.

At the meeting held on Wednesday evening, chairman and committee in charge of the party were elected. Nine members were present.

Cocoa and Chocolate

Cocoa is the ground cocoa bean from which part of the oil or fat has been extracted, and is sold in powdered form. Chocolate is the ground cocoa bean including oil or fat, generally in cake form, either sweetened or unsweetened.

Queen Stricken

Due to her sleepless and unceasing watch at the bedside of His Majesty, King George of England, Queen Mary (above) is under care of physicians a few rooms away with a severe attack of catarrh. Her Majesty's attendants deny she is in immediate danger.

Mrs. Louis Schaefer Entertains

Mrs. Louis Schaefer, 916 Bluff Avenue North, entertained for 16 friends on Wednesday evening, the occasion being her birthday. A very enjoyable evening was spent, and at close a luncheon was served.

Friends departed at a late hour, wishing Mrs. Schaefer many happy returns of the day.

Continental Currency

After Washington became President and Hamilton secretary of the treasury, a law was passed by congress under which the Continental paper money and bills of credit were redeemed at the rate of a few cents to the dollar.

Best for Windbreak

Trees which have dense foliage that is retained over winter and whose lower branches hang on for a period of years are the best for windbreaks. These are spruce, fir, hemlocks, Douglas fir, arbutus, cedars and Monterey cypress. The white pines are nearly as good and Scotch pine is very effective up to twelve or fifteen years of age.

Chief Food

Wheat was evidently intended to be mankind's chief food, for it will grow over a wider area of the earth's surface than any other plant. There are over 1,000 varieties, suitable to different climates and soils.

Old Fear Confirmed

A German professor is now convinced that rocks breathe. That explains the noises that a small boy hears in a lonely place on a dark night.—Toronto Globe.

Biggest Locomotive

The world's biggest locomotive will be able to pull a train two miles long. What a job motor speeders will have trying to knock it off the track!—New York Evening Post.

No Two Kinds

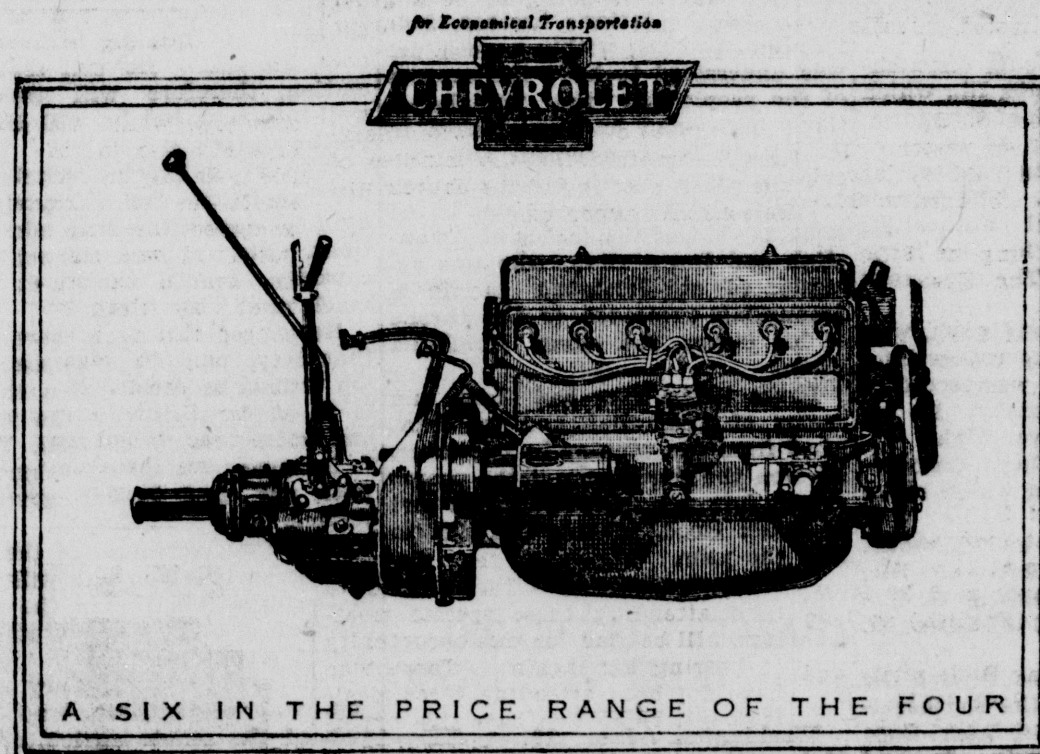

Rightness expresses of actions what straightness does of lines; there can no more be two kinds of right action than there can be two kinds of straight lines.—Herbert Spencer.

Keep youth longer!

cleanse the system of poisons

Two of the great enemies to youth and vitality are delayed elimination and intestinal poisons. To keep yourself free from both these common difficulties will help you to stay young.

With the use of Nujol you can do it too. For Nujol absorbs body poisons and carries them off, preventing their absorption by the body. Nujol also softens the waste matter and brings about normal evacuation. It is harmless; contains no drugs or medicine. It won't cause gas or griping pains, or affect the stomach or kidneys. Every corner druggist has Nujol. Make sure you get the genuine. Look for the Nujol bottle with the label on the back that you can read right through the bottle. Don't delay, get Nujol today.

Smoothness

Never Before Achieved in a Low-Priced Automobile

Of all the exceptional performance qualities resulting from the advanced design of the new Chevrolet Six, none is more impressive than its remarkably smooth operation.

Although the new six-cylinder motor develops 32% more power with correspondingly higher speed and faster acceleration . . . although it delivers better than twenty miles to the gallon of gasoline—

—its outstanding feature of performance is a degree of smoothness never before achieved in any low-priced automobile.

To achieve such remarkable performance in a car of such low price, Chevrolet spent years in development work. Over 100 different engines were designed, built and subjected to over a million miles of testing at the General Motors Proving Ground before the present motor was adopted. The new power plant has many unusual features, such as the new acceleration pump, the new gasoline pump and filter, and the new automatic lubrication of the rocker arms.

The four-wheel brakes have been newly designed to assure positive, quiet action. Steering has been made easier. And the new Fisher bodies with their new lines, new colors, adjustable driver's seats and new appointments represent new heights of style, distinction, comfort and value.

We extend you a cordial invitation to see and drive the new Chevrolet Six. We believe it an experience that every motorist should have—and we want you to know how finely the new Chevrolet Six is built and how smoothly it performs!

Nature Will Out

The gods were once disputing whether it was possible for a living being to change its nature. Jupiter said "Yes," but Venus said "No." So, to try the question, Jupiter turned a cat into a maiden, and gave her to a young man for a wife. The wedding was duly performed, and the young couple sat down to the wedding feast. "See," said Jupiter to Venus, "how becomingly she behaves. Who could tell that yesterday she was but a cat? Surely her nature is changed." "Wait a minute," replied Venus, and let loose a mouse into the room. No sooner did the bride see this than she jumped up from her seat and tried to pounce upon the mouse. "Ah, you see," said Venus, "nature will out."—Aesop.

Altering a Sundial

I was in the Old world garden of a friend near a sleepy Huntingdonshire town when I made the discovery, says a writer in the London Chronicle. Seeing an old sundial, I went across, as all humans would, and compared the time shown with my watch. I was startled to find that the sundial registered the correct time! My friend, full of wisdom, explained that as a sundial could, anyway, only be read in the summer time, he decided to have his corrected for British summer time. The idea was bright enough, no doubt, but to me the action had rather the air of meddling with eternal things.

Luxuries of Long Ago

Among the tombs which hold the remains of noble Romans who founded a colony far from their native land in Budapest about the same time that other Romans were fortifying London have been found bottles of perfume, bronze mirrors, valuable jewels, as well as other toilet articles which show that the people of ancient days were fond of luxuries as well as modern men and women.

Knew the Resemblance

Louise had frequently seen her mother, when sewing, taking the bustling threads out of garments. One day when corn was served on the cob for dinner, Louise got a slink off the corn in her teeth and said: "Mother, why don't the cook take all the bustling threads out of the corn before she gives it to us to eat."

Men and Lower Animals

While none will question the statement that man is superior to all animals mentally, it can scarcely be claimed that man is the physical superior of all animals. In strength and agility, in ability to swim and fly, man is greatly the inferior of some animals, but his mental powers have enabled him to overcome these handicaps with the use of machinery.

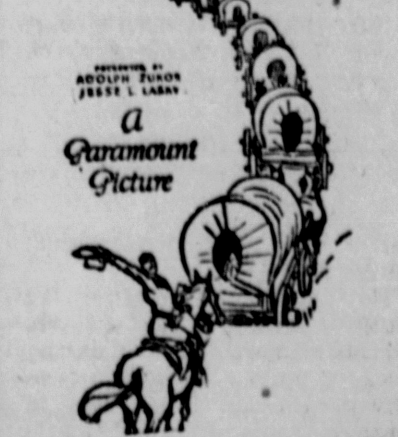

South's "Lost Cause"

"The Lost Cause" is a phrase which became current through the title of a history of the Civil war (1886) by E. A. Pollard. It is used as an expression designative for the purposes and aims which the Southern people, through the war, vainly sought to realize in the permanent establishment of the Confederate States of America.

Nature Will Out
The gods were once disputing whether it was possible for a living being to change its nature. Jupiter said "Yes," but Venus said "No." So, to try the question, Jupiter turned a cat into a maiden, and gave her to a young man for a wife. The wedding was duly performed, and the young couple sat down to the wedding feast. "See," said Jupiter to Venus, "how becomingly she behaves. Who could tell that yesterday she was but a cat? Surely her nature is changed." "Wait a minute," replied Venus, and let loose a mouse into the room. No sooner did the bride see this than she jumped up from her seat and tried to pounce upon the mouse. "Ah, you see," said Venus, "nature will out."—Aesop.

Altering a Sundial
I was in the Old world garden of a friend near a sleepy Huntingdonshire town when I made the discovery, says a writer in the London Chronicle. Seeing an old sundial, I went across, as all humans would, and compared the time shown with my watch. I was startled to find that the sundial registered the correct time! My friend, full of wisdom, explained that as a sundial could, anyway, only be read in the summer time, he decided to have his corrected for British summer time. The idea was bright enough, no doubt, but to me the action had rather the air of meddling with eternal things.

Luxuries of Long Ago
Among the tombs which hold the remains of noble Romans who founded a colony far from their native land in Budapest about the same time that other Romans were fortifying London have been found bottles of perfume, bronze mirrors, valuable jewels, as well as other toilet articles which show that the people of ancient days were fond of luxuries as well as modern men and women.

Knew the Resemblance
Louise had frequently seen her mother, when sewing, taking the basting threads out of garments. One day when corn was served on the cob for dinner, Louise got a silk off the corn in her teeth and said: "Mother, why don't the cook take all the basting threads out of the corn before she gives it to us to eat."

Men and Lower Animals
While none will question the statement that man is superior to all animals mentally, it can scarcely be claimed that man is the physical superior of all animals. In strength and agility in ability to swim and fly, man is greatly the inferior of some animals, but his mental powers have enabled him to overcome these handicaps with the use of machinery.

South's "Lost Cause"
"The Lost Cause" is a phrase which became current through the title of a history of the Civil War (1863) by E. A. Pollard. It is used as an expression designative for the purposes and aims which the Southern people, through the war, vainly sought to realize in the permanent establishment of the Confederate States of America.

WOMEN FOR OFFICE

In urging efficiency as the only consideration in the choice of men or women for Federal positions the General Federation of Women's clubs has displayed good sense that is deserving the applause of both sexes. The organization has clearly demonstrated that it senses the crux of the problem involved; and what is more encouraging, it has taken a position designed to give women the best possible chance of extending their political influence.

The attitude taken is that no woman should be appointed to a federal position of trust just because she is a woman. The board decided that "unless a woman under consideration for appointment to a position of federal trust is as well fitted or better fitted for the position than any man to whom it might be offered, in justice to all womanhood we feel the appointment should be passed to the person most efficient for the definite position." This means that the Federation of Women's clubs will look with disfavor upon any attempts to secure appointment of a woman to President-elect Hoover's Cabinet on the sole ground that the woman vote was largely responsible for his election.

In taking such a view the women are advancing their own cause as well as the cause of efficient government. Women are making steady gains in politics. In the present congress there are five women, and there will be eight in the house at the next session. A recent survey shows that there are now 145 women members of 38 state legislatures, which is an increase of 19 over last year. Sixty-eight of these women are serving second terms and twelve of them have been elected for the fourth time. This tends to show that these women have been elected on their merit. Appointment of women to positions for purely political reasons would be equivalent to a distribution of plums to those crowds having the most votes. No president has a right to use public offices to pay his political debts or to buy support.—Washington Post.

THE SALVATION ARMY CRISIS

GENERAL BRAMWELL BOOTH, too old and too sick to control the destinies of the Salvation Army, has been deposed from his office of commander-in-chief by the high council of the Army. Thus a benevolent revolution in the ranks of the Army has ousted its dictator and has sought to replace his autocratic rule by one more truly founded on tenets of democracy.

To the casual outsider, the action of the Army's council may appear callous, a little too much like striking a man when he is down. The rebellious leadership of Commander Evangeline Booth also may seem at variance with principles of family pride and loyalty.

Closer study of this Salvation Army crisis reveals no indications of mere backbiting and ingratitude. The ouster of General Booth was discussed for an uninterrupted 14 hours Wednesday, and the vote of 55 to 8 in favor of dismissal came only after the move was exhaustively argued by commissioners who had long worked hand in hand with the general.

Succession in Salvation Army rule has remained dynastic; the Booth family has been in indisputable control of the organization since its founding by General William Booth in 1865. Doubtless dissatisfaction has been felt that dictatorial powers should be vested in one man; Evangeline Booth, after refusing her brother's order to relinquish command of the Army in America, recently headed a movement, with no success, to make the office of the general elective rather than dynastic. It is quite possible that aged General Booth's dismissal marks a change for the better in the Army's administrative policies.—Minneapolis Star.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

WHEN the Minnesota Historical society meets in the Twin Cities Monday it will be observing one of the first acts of the Territorial Legislature.

Passing of a bill creating the society was one of the first official moves of the legislature for Minnesota Territory. The society was incorporated Oct. 20, 1849.

Formal organization was completed a month later in the office of Charles K. Smith, territorial secretary, at which Alexander Ramsey, territorial governor, was elected president.

The meetings Monday will be held in Minneapolis and St. Paul jointly. The morning program will be held at the Nicollet hotel and the evening program at the Historical building.

Impatient Griselda
by Dorothy Scarborough

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

TO Irene Robeline it was a painful duty to sit up at the vigil of Lilith Holden. The story of Lilith's capture of handsome Guinn Holden, young minister of the Texas town, as told by Mattie Anson, village gossip, was like stabs with a knife. Lilith was the prettiest girl in town. Her coquetry didn't stop at the church, but almost before she knew it she had married Holden. A year later, with the birth of a child, Lilith died. Irene's heart aches for Holden, who attempts to care for the infant with the aid of a colored servant. The minister comes to her for advice, never realizing Irene's passion for him. Will Lundy, town doctor, in love with Irene, is equally ignorant of her secret. Even Mattie Anson, who hints that it is time for Irene to marry Lundy, is deceived.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VII.

IRENE'S thought flashed forward down a long road of a possible future.

"But you can't marry unless you fall in love, can you, Miss Mattie?" she said, smilingly, though the smile was a bit difficult to make seem convincing. Her lips felt stiff.

"Lawsee!" scolded Mattie. "Falling in love ain't such a chore as that, and it ain't the only thing, either. To feel all quivery and flutery and jumpy at the sight of one human being more'n another—how long does that last and when they put on long dresses. Nobody before 'em ever had a heart jump."

Irene laughed. To think of Miss Mattie yearning for Art Rakestraw. Poor old Mattie! No, it had been young Mattie then. . . . Time sped away so fast—whether you married the man you loved or not. Now Mattie had no romance in her chinquapin eyes. . . . But maybe her curiosity about other people's romances was merely to fill her own lack.

Mattie sniffed and the wart on her chin giggled. "Laugh if you've a mind to. But if you don't mark my words, some day you'll be laughing on the other side of your mouth—when you're an old maid that's lost her looks, jest setting by the side of the road to watch other folks fall in love and get married."

"Yes, but what if you don't fall in love?"

"As bright a girl as you can do anything you put your mind to, can't you? What's the reason you can't love a nice, proper sort of young man, up and coming, like Will Lundy? And not have to pay for pills and poultices. What are you waiting for—a millionaire he-an-gel?"

"No," Irene laughed, a warm flush surging over her face and tingling over her body. No. . . . just a sober young preacher, with no thought for her at all.

"Look at how this foolishness of falling in love has messed up the preacher's life," snapped Mattie, as if she held Irene responsible for it. "He had no more business marrying that flighty Lilith than a tomat has to learn toe dancing. Look at him now, with that baby hanging around his neck. Can't preach contented on Sunday morning without coking one ear to hear whether she's crying or not. And grieving for that little French doll. Won't never be the same man again. Just give a thought to him now."

Irene gave a thought to him. As days and weeks went by, she gave more thought to him. Was there a waking hour when he wasn't in her mind, in the background or the foreground? Thoughts of him sifted around all other thoughts, filled up each chink and cranny of her consciousness. She wondered over the strangeness of it. She could be giving the top part of her mind to some practical task, be using her brain efficiently, yet behind her other idea was the image, the memory of Guinn Holden. No matter what scene her eyes gazed on, she saw his face in some symbolic way.

She could be carrying on a lively conversation with a group, and yet Guinn's voice, not there at all, was clearer in her ears than any other. What a queer, sad thing was love! Across each face she saw would come a sudden, wilder image of dark eyes and melancholy mouth.

She gave all her thoughts to him. But did he ever give a thought to her? He seemed to have no conscious memory of how near he had been to loving her—before Lilith came home from Alabama. Had he forgotten? Or had he never realized? Would he ever know—or remember?

Sometimes she saw him taking flowers to Lilith's grave. But often she saw him on his porch across the street, living in the open as much as possible, according to the Texas custom—one hand holding a book which he read, the other crooked around the baby. Or he strolled up and down the parsonage lawn, with little Lilith in his arms, his head bent forward in abstraction, his pace now sober and sedate, now quickened. Was it his next Sunday morning that he meditated at such times? Or was he remembering Lilith?

Life was a muddle, a muddle. Would it ever come clear for her? Will Lundy kept on wearing a path to her porch. In fact, he was almost a piece of the porch furniture, and his patients had learned that when his office 'phone didn't answer, they'd be safe to try Irene Robeline's house. He loved her. But somehow she didn't wish him to speak of love to her. She didn't wish anyone to speak to her of love—except one man who gave no sign he meant ever to say anything. So she used her tact to elude the subject with Will Lundy.

But one late-Summer evening when they stood on the porch as he started to leave, the night, the moon, the jasmine flowers, the music of a wakeful mocking bird in the pecan tree by the gate conspired against her.

Will Lundy drew her into his arms and kissed her suddenly. "Irene, I love you, love you!" he cried. For an instant she rested in his embrace, relaxed to his kiss, indulging herself in the hallucination that it was Guinn who caressed her. Guinn's voice that stammered, "I love you, love you!" His clasp tightened and he stooped lower to lay his cheek against her hair. "You do love me, don't you, Irene?"

"Yes," she murmured, steeped in false bliss.

Then swiftly she snatched herself from his embrace, shaken with fright and shame.

"No, no! I didn't mean it! I don't know what swept over me!"

But well she knew, she told herself. Was she a liar?

He stood facing her in the moonlight, his tall form (six feet two she remembered shakily, as she looked at him) drawn to its full height.

His coppery hair shone in the light, burnished, glowing with life, and his gray eyes that held the wisdom of seas and prairies, seemed looking into a woman's soul.

"You thought for a moment—you loved me?" he asked softly.

"Just for the moment, yes! But it isn't true, Will!" she whispered, white and shaken.

He put his hand on her bare arm, to steady her. "Don't be scared, Irene, I won't try to rush you." His voice was low, as if to soothe her. "I'll just wait—for the moment to come again."

"It never will!" she said. "You'd best forget me—and—and love someone else."

His smile was ironic now. "Too late to save me. I'm the sort of fellow that loves one horse, one dog, one gun, one girl. I've found my girl, and I shan't find another."

"Oh, but you will, with all the pretty girls in town." She smiled ironically, too, at the thought of masculine constancy.

"All I ask of the pretty girls is to get sick and let me cure 'em. Mean to have a hospital in this town when I get the money and beauty won't bar any patient. But love now, is a different matter."

"Yes, a different matter," she agreed, with hanging head, and eyes that would not meet his.

From the parsonage across the street came

"Your pearly teeth are false, love."

They rattle while you wait, love."

Guinn was walking Lilith.

"I can wait," said Dr. Lundy. "I'm only twenty-seven, and my family are like hickory timber—live to be a hundred. I love you. That fact won't change and I'll keep on telling you about it till the day you're married to another man!"

"No, no!"

His whimsical mouth set in determined lines, and his jaw showed rigid.

"First time I saw you, the night we sat up together at the parsonage, I said to myself, 'There comes my true love.' A fellow knows when the bullet has reached his heart. Won't need any post-mortem to let folks know I got my finish then. And love can be a lasting thing, Irene."

"Yes," she said.

"And so, even if you don't love me now, I'm strong on hoping. You can't break me of that."

"Only death breaks us of hope," she said.

But her thoughts were on a shadow that passed and repassed against a curtain across the street. If only she could love Will Lundy, that would settle everything! But she couldn't—and there was no use to try, she told herself. She could love nobody but Guinn!

Men were so weak and notional that you never could tell what idea might strike one any day. Guinn had been so yielding in the case of Lilith that he might be roped in by some other designing flirt. Well, she'd keep her eyes open for danger, and hold her own in readiness for the instant when it would be wise to throw. She wasn't going to let him be taken in by someone else a second time, not if she could help it. . . . But why worry? Yes, yes. . . . that was what must be in Guinn Holden's thoughts. . . . Nobody like Lilith!

Well, this time she'd not let common sense be wrecked by modesty at a critical time. . . .

WOMEN FOR OFFICE

IN urging efficiency as the only consideration in the choice of men or women for Federal positions the General Federation of Women's clubs has displayed good sense that is deserving the applause of both sexes. The organization has clearly demonstrated that it senses the crux of the problem involved; and what is more encouraging, it has taken a position designed to give women the best possible chance of extending their political influence.

The attitude taken is that no woman should be appointed to a federal position of trust just because she is a woman. The board decided that "unless a woman under consideration for appointment to a position of federal trust is as well fitted or better fitted for the position than any man to whom it might be offered, in justice to all womanhood we feel the appointment should be passed to the person most efficient for the definite position." This means that the Federation of Women's clubs will look with disfavor upon any attempts to secure appointment of a woman to President-elect Hoover's Cabinet on the sole ground that the woman vote was largely responsible for his election.

In taking such a view the women are advancing their own cause as well as the cause of efficient government. Women are making steady gains in politics. In the present congress there are five women, and there will be eight in the house at the next session. A recent survey shows that there are now 145 women members of 38 state legislatures, which is an increase of 19 over last year. Sixty-eight of these women are serving second terms and twelve of them have been elected for the fourth time. This tends to show that these women have been elected on their merit. Appointment of women to positions for purely political reasons would be equivalent to a distribution of plums to those crowds having the most votes. No president has a right to use public offices to pay his political debts or to buy support.—Washington Post.

THE SALVATION ARMY CRISIS

GENERAL BRAMWELL BOOTH, too old and too sick to control the destinies of the Salvation Army, has been deposed from his office of commander-in-chief by the high council of the Army. Thus a benevolent revolution in the ranks of the Army has ousted its dictator and has sought to replace his autocratic rule by one more truly founded on tenets of democracy.

To the casual outsider, the action of the Army's council may appear callous, a little too much like striking a man when he is down. The rebellious leadership of Commander Evangeline Booth also may seem at variance with principles of family pride and loyalty.

Closer study of this Salvation Army crisis reveals no indications of mere backbiting and ingratitude. The ouster of General Booth was discussed for an uninterrupted 14 hours Wednesday, and the vote of 55 to 8 in favor of dismissal came only after the move was exhaustively argued by commissioners who had long worked hand in hand with the general.

Succession in Salvation Army rule has remained dynastic; the Booth family has been in indisputable control of the organization since its founding by General William Booth in 1865. Doubtless dissatisfaction has been felt that dictatorial powers should be vested in one man; Evangeline Booth, after refusing her brother's order to relinquish command of the Army in America, recently headed a movement, with no success, to make the office of the general elective rather than dynastic. It is quite possible that aged General Booth's dismissal marks a change for the better in the Army's administrative policies.—Minneapolis Star.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

WHEN the Minnesota Historical society meets in the Twin Cities Monday it will be observing one of the first acts of the Territorial Legislature.

Passing of a bill creating the society was one of the first official moves of the legislature for Minnesota Territory. The society was incorporated Oct. 20, 1849.

Formal organization was completed a month later in the office of Charles K. Smith, territorial secretary, at which Alexander Ramsey, territorial governor, was elected president.

The meetings Monday will be held in Minneapolis and St. Paul jointly. The morning program will be held at the Nicollet hotel and the evening program at the Historical building.

C. L. MOTL WINS HONORS

C. L. MOTL, former county highway engineer of Crow Wing county, later assistant maintenance engineer of the Minnesota Highway department, is the new president of the Engineers' Society of St. Paul.

Other newly elected officers of the organization are Albert Buenger, vice president; Carl C. Borchert, secretary and treasurer; Meyer Barnert, member of the governing board and L. O. Painter, director of Minnesota Federation of Architectural and Engineering Societies.

It is odd but true that some of our greatest worry is over things that do happen, a Dispatch reader told us.

SOUTH ST. PAUL LIVESTOCK

South St. Paul, Jan. 19.—(By Department of Agriculture)—HOGS—Re-

Impatient Griselda

by Dorothy Scarborough

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

TO Irene Robeline it was a painful duty to sit up at the vigil of Lilith Holden. The story of Lilith's capture of handsome Guinn Holden, young minister of the Texas town, as told by Mattie Anson, village gossip, was like stabs with a knife. Lilith was the prettiest girl in town. Her coquetry didn't stop at the church, but almost before she knew it she had married Holden. A year later, with the birth of a child, Lilith died. Irene's heart aches for Holden, who attempts to care for the infant with the aid of a colored servant. The minister comes to her for advice, never realizing Irene's passion for him. Will Lundy, town doctor, in love with Irene, is equally ignorant of her secret. Even Mattie Anson, who hints that it is time for Irene to marry Lundy, is deceived.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VII.

IRENE'S thought flashed forward down a long road of a possible future.

"But you can't marry unless you fall in love, can you, Miss Mattie?" she said, smilingly, though the smile was a bit difficult to make seem convincing. Her lips felt stiff.

"Lawee!" scolded Mattie. "Falling in love ain't such a chore as that, and it ain't the only thing, either. To feel all quivery and fluttery and jumpy at the sight of one human being more'n another—how long does that last and what does it amount to?"

"Maybe you've never been in love."

"I've been married, ain't I? Though that's not always the same thing, I'll allow. Oh, yes, my girl, I've been more kinds of a lunatic than you know. Times I laid awake crying into my pillow just before Art Rakestraw married Mandy! And now I'd howl like a hyena if I had to be married to him. And there's others, too, little as you'd guess. Girls always think romance was born into the world when they put on long dresses. Nobody before 'em ever had a heart jump."

Irene laughed. To think of Miss Mattie yearning for Art Rakestraw. Poor old Mattie! No, it had been young Mattie then. . . . Time sped away so fast—whether you married the man you loved or not. Now Mattie had no romance in her chinquapin eyes. . . . But maybe her curiosity about other people's romances was merely to fill her own lack.

Mattie sniffed and the wart on her chin wiggled. "Laugh if you've a mind to. But if you don't mark my words, some day you'll be laughing on the other side of your mouth—when you're an old maid that's lost her looks, jest setting by the side of the road to watch other folks fall in love and get married."

"Yes, but what if you don't fall in love?"

"As bright a girl as you can do anything you put your mind to, can't you? What's the reason you can't love a nice, proper sort of young man, up and coming, like Will Lundy? And not have to pay for pills and poultices. What are you waiting for—a millionaire he-he-he!"

"No," Irene laughed, a warm flush surging over her face and tingling over her body. No, just a sober young preacher, with no thought for her at all.

"Look at how this foolishness of falling in love has muddled up the preacher's life," snapped Mattie, as if she held Irene responsible for it. "He had no more business marrying that flighty Lilith than a tomat has to learn toe dancing. Look at him now, with that baby hanging around his neck. Can't preach, can't content on Sunday mornings without cooking one ear to hear whether she's crying or not. And grieving for that little French doll. Won't never be the same man again. Just give a thought to him now."

Irene gave a thought to him. As days and weeks went by, she gave more thought to him. Was there a waking hour when he wasn't in her mind, in the background or the foreground? Thoughts of him sifted around all her thoughts, filled up each chink and cranny of her consciousness. She wondered over the strangeness of it. She could be giving the top part of her mind to some practical task, be using her brain efficiently, yet behind the other idea was the image, the memory of Guinn Holden. No matter what scene her eyes gazed on, she saw his face in some symbolic way.

She could be carrying on a lively conversation with a group, and yet Guinn's voice, not there at all, was clearer in her ears than any other. What a queer, sad thing was love! Across each face she saw would come a sudden, wilder image of dark eyes and melancholy mouth.

She gave all her thoughts to him. But did he ever give a thought to her? He seemed to have no conscious memory of how near he had been to loving her—before Lilith came home from Alabama. Had he forgotten? Or had he never realized? Would he ever know—or remember?

Sometimes she saw him taking flowers to Lilith's grave. But often she saw him on his porch across the street, living in the open as much as possible, according to the Texas custom—one hand holding a book which he read, the other crooked around the baby. Or he strolled up and down the parsonage lawn, with little Lilith in his arms, his head bent forward in abstraction, his pace now sober and sedate, now quickened. Was it his next Sunday morning that he meditated at such times? Or was he remembering Lilith?

Life was a muddle, a muddle. Would it ever come clear for her? Will Lundy kept on wearing a path to her porch. In fact, he was almost a piece of the porch furniture, and his patients had learned that when his office phone didn't answer, they'd be safe to try Irene Robeline's house.

He loved her. But somehow she didn't wish him to speak of love to her. She didn't wish anyone to speak to her of love—except one man who gave no sign he meant ever to say anything. So she used her tact to elude the subject with Will Lundy.

But one late-Summer evening when they stood on the porch as he started to leave, the night, the moon, the jasmine flowers, the music of a wakeful mocking bird in the pecan tree by the gate conspired against her.

Will Lundy drew her into his arms and kissed her suddenly. "Irene, I love you, love you!" he cried.

For an instant she rested in his embrace, relaxed to his kiss, indulging herself in the hallucination that it was Guinn who caressed her. Guinn's voice that stammered, "I love you, love you!"

His clasp tightened and he stooped lower to lay his cheek against her hair. "You do love me, don't you, Irene?"

"Yes," she murmured, steeped in false bliss.

Then swiftly she snatched herself from his embrace, shaken with fright and shame.

"No, no! I didn't mean it! I don't know what swept over me!"

But well she knew, she told herself. Was she a liar?

He stood facing her in the moonlight, his tall form (six feet two she remembered shakily, as she looked at him) drawn to its full height.

His coppery hair shone in the light, burnished, glowing with life, and his gray eyes that held the wisdom of seas and prairies, seemed looking into a woman's soul.

"You thought for a moment—you loved me?" he asked softly.

"Just for the moment, yes. But it isn't true, Will!" she whispered, white and shaken.

He put his hand on her bare arm, to steady her. "Don't be scared, Irene, I won't try to rush you." His voice was low, as if to soothe her. "I'll just wait—for the moment to come again."

"It never will!" she said. "You'd best forget me—and love someone else."

His smile was ironic now. "Too late to save me. The sort of fellow that loves one horse, one dog, one gun, one girl. I've found my girl, and I shall find another."

"Oh, but you will, with all the pretty girls in town." She smiled ironically, too, at the thought of masculine constancy.

"All I ask of the pretty girls is to get sick and let me cure 'em. Mean to have a hospital in this town when I get the money and beauty won't bar any patient. But love now, is a different matter."

"Yes, a different matter. From the parsonage across the street came."

"Your pearly teeth are false, love. They rattle while you waltz, love."

Guinn was walking Lilith. "I can wait," said Dr. Lundy. "I'm only twenty-seven and my family are like hickory timber—live to be a hundred. I love you. That fact won't change and I'll keep on telling you about it till the day you're married to another man!"

"No, no!"

His whimsical mouth set in determined lines, and his jaw showed rigid.

"First time I saw you, the night we sat up together at the parsonage, I said to myself, 'There comes my true love.' A fellow knows when the bullet has reached his heart. Won't need any post-mortem to let folks know I got my finish then. And love can be a lasting thing, Irene."

"Yes," she said.

"And so, even if you don't love me now, I'm strong on hoping. You can't break me that."

"Only death breaks us of hope," she said.

But her thoughts were on a shadow that passed and repassed against a curtain across the street.

If only she could love Will Lundy, that would settle everything! But she couldn't—and there was no use to try, she told herself. She could love nobody but Guinn!

Men were so weak and notional that you never could tell what idea might strike one any day. Guinn had been so yielding in the case of Lilith that he might be roped in by some other designing flirt. Well, she'd keep her eyes open for danger, and hold her own in readiness for the instant when it would be wise to throw. She wasn't going to let him be taken in by someone else a second time, not if she could help it. . . . But why worry? There was only one Lilith. . . . Yes, yes. . . . That was what must be in Guinn Holden's thoughts. . . . Nobody like Lilith!

Well, this time she'd not let common sense be wrecked by modesty at a critical time. . . . (To Be Continued.)

MAL CLARK, BRILLIANT ATTORNEY, DIES TODAY

Passed Away at 10:30 A. M. at His Home; Fractured Skull in Fall

DEATH STAGGERS CITY

Achieved Fame and Success as Attorney and Business Man

Mal Clark, 38 years old, brilliant Brainerd attorney, died at his home, 620 North Fourth street at 10:30 a. m. today.

His death followed an accident early today which even he at the time gave no significance to. He had arisen from his bed at 3 a. m. and in walking from his room to the hall fell the length of stairs. Unassisted he returned to his bed and sleep. At 10 a. m. Mrs. Clark first detected irregular breathing by her husband and immediately called a physician. Soon after, Mr. Clark passed away.

Physicians report that Mr. Clark suffered a fractured skull in the fall and that in a dazed condition he returned to his bed. He lapsed into unconsciousness during his sleep from which he failed to awaken.

The shock of Mr. Clark's death came as a staggering blow to relatives and his many friends here.

Throughout last evening Mr. Clark had discussed business matters with J. W. Harrison, R. E. Wyett, and B. L. Lagerquist, members of the special hotel committee of the Chamber of Commerce at his home. Mr. Clark had been retained by parties interested in the construction of the proposed new hotel at Pine Beach, Gull Lake, to conduct their legal matters.

The committee members had left the Clark home at 10:45 p. m. Mr. Clark's last official work in life was the composition of an advertisement last evening which was to have appeared in the Brainerd Dispatch today, informing the public of the need of a modern hotel in the lake region.

Mr. Clark's work in the promotion of the hotel project was typical of his business life here for he worked constantly for the growth of Brainerd and expansion of interests in the lake country.

He had, unquestionably, one of the keenest minds in the law profession in Brainerd. His seemingly unerring judgment in business transactions was sought by many Brainerd people. His reputation as an outstanding attorney was not limited to Brainerd alone for among his clients were many from different parts of the state and out of the state. Although in later years he devoted his work more to commercial law and his business enterprises he achieved fame through his professional work in court rooms, his decisions as counsel and his arguments to juries.

Mal Clark was born in Brainerd on April 19, 1890. He is a graduate of the Brainerd high school and a graduate in law from Notre Dame university, June 13, 1916.

He practiced law in St. Paul and later in Bemidji before starting his practice in Brainerd. He was associated with the late S. F. Alderman first in Brainerd, later practicing alone, until two months ago when Per M. Larson, former Minneapolis attorney, became his associate.

At one time he was named special municipal judge of Brainerd.

His business interests in Brainerd included those with the Crow Wing Oil Co., Lively Auto Co., Alderman-Maghan Co., and the Crow Wing Holding Co.

He was an active member of the St. Francis Catholic church, Brainerd Lodge of Elks No. 615, Knights of Columbus, Chamber of Commerce and the Brainerd Country club.

Mr. Clark was married in St. Paul on January 29, 1915 to Miss Helen Wheelan, of St. Paul. He leaves besides his widow, two children, Jane, 13, Rosemary, 11, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Clark, Brainerd, two sisters, Marie and Jane, and one brother Dr. D. M. Clark, Pine City, Minn.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

TO GIVE DIALOGUE DEBATE

Anti-Saloon League Representatives to Discuss "Can The Law Be Enforced?"

On Sunday evening, January 29, representatives of the Anti-Saloon League, Superintendent D. L. McBride and Rev. W. C. A. Waller, both of Minneapolis, will give a dialogue debate on "Can the Law Be Enforced?" at the First Methodist church. This debate promises to be very interesting, and is free to the public.

BOY SCOUTS PLAN ANNIVERSARY WEEK

Mobilization of All Scouts to be Feature of Week Starting February 8

PROGRAMS ARRANGED

Spectacular Demonstration of Scout Preparedness to Follow Rededication Rites

Boy Scout Anniversary Week will be celebrated this year during the week of February 8th through the 14th. February 8th will mark the observance of the 19th birthday of the Boy Scout Movement in this country. Three events of outstanding importance to the nation will mark the celebration. On the evening of February 8th more than 800, 000 Scouts and their leaders will stand at attention and rededicate themselves to the principles of the Scout Oath and Law. On February 9th, in nearly every city and hamlet of the country, Scouts will mobilize to perform a community Good Turn. It will be a spectacular demonstration of the rapidity with which Scouts can be mobilized for emergency service at any time. On February 10th patriotic pilgrimages to the graves of Presidents of the United States and to other places of historic interest will be taken by many Scouts.

Rededication Ceremonies At 8:15 o'clock on February 8th the rededication ceremonies will be observed. Every Scout, wherever he may be, will stand at attention and rededicate himself to the principles for which the Scout Oath and the Scout Law stand. Boy Scouts—Troop Scouts, Sea Scouts, Lone Scouts and Rural Scouts—representatives of every section of the country and of every type of American home will "Be Prepared" to pledge themselves anew to the ideals and objectives of the Scout Movement, which in its 19 years of progress in this country has become the greatest organized effort on behalf of boys of which history holds record.

Comes of Age This year's Anniversary Week will be of especial significance because, in addition to marking the 19th birthday of the Boy Scouts of America, it will also mark the 21st birthday of Scouting throughout the world. The Boy Scouts of America, was incorporated in Washington, D. C., on February 8th, 1910. In England the Movement had been launched three years before by General Sir Robert Baden-Powell, its founder.

In observance of the celebration, Boy Scouts will wear their uniforms throughout the week, to school and in their homes.

Special Days In addition to the three days of national activity, each day of Anniversary Week is designated for some activity of special interest to Scouts and the people with whom they come in contact. February 10th will be observed as Scout Sunday. Scouts in Troops will attend Church in uniform at either morning or afternoon services. Scouts wearing uniforms will serve as ushers in their places of worship and Ministers, Priests, and Rabbis, will be urged to preach Scout sermons. Monday, February 11th, will be observed as School Day. Scouts will participate in school demonstration to show that Scouting augments school work and tends to increase interests of boys for school and education. All Scouts will wear their uniforms to school during Anniversary Week. On Wednesday, February 13th, Scouts will participate in civic Good Turns, doing something to improve their community. The day will be designated as "Citizen's Day." On Thursday, February 14th, the last day of Anniversary Week, the Scouts will observe "Home Day." On this day they will do some "Good Turn" in their own homes. Emphasis will be placed on Merit Badge activities in carpentry, plumbing, painting, handicraft, and Scouts will be urged to do something that will be useful to their parents. Each Scout will be urged on that day to relieve his parents of the burden of some of the household tasks in which he usually takes no part.

To a most important group of motor car buyers

Certain American people are getting on in the world. Many of them are just starting. But they're headed up the ladder. Their ideas of luxury are expanding. They want finer homes, finer furniture, finer automobiles.

These people form a most important group of automobile buyers. Their importance lies in the progress they are making. As they progress, their needs grow. Their ideas encompass new standards of living.

For three years, hundreds of thousands of these progressive Americans have been buying the Pontiac Six. Some of them have bought it as the first car they ever owned. But to most of them, Pontiac has represented the first big step up from the lowest priced field.

For this progressive group, Oakland has now created a brand new Pontiac Six. It represents an even greater advancement over everything else in its field today than the original Pontiac represented in 1926. It offers all the style, safety and comfort advantages of entirely new bodies by Fisher. It will enable progressive Americans to enjoy greater beauty, greater luxury and finer performance than ever at its price. It will take its buyers farther than ever up the ladder of motor car quality in one step. And that step remains as easy as ever to make. Watch for the

Passed Away at 10:30 A. M. at His Home; Fractured Skull in Fall

DEATH STAGGERS CITY

Achieved Fame and Success as Attorney and Business Man

Mal Clark, 38 years old, brilliant Brainerd attorney, died at his home, 620 North Fourth street at 10:30 a. m. today.

His death followed an accident early today which even he at the time gave no significance to. He had arisen from his bed at 3 a. m. and in walking from his room to the hall fell the length of stairs. Unassisted he returned to his bed and sleep. At 10 a. m. Mrs. Clark first detected irregular breathing by her husband and immediately called a physician. Soon after, Mr. Clark passed away.

Physicians report that Mr. Clark suffered a fractured skull in the fall and that in a dazed condition he returned to his bed. He lapsed into unconsciousness during his sleep from which he failed to awaken.

The shock of Mr. Clark's death came as a staggering blow to relatives and his many friends here.

Throughout last evening Mr. Clark had discussed business matters with J. W. Harrison, R. E. Wyatt, and B. L. Lagerquist, members of the special hotel committee of the Chamber of Commerce at his home. Mr. Clark had been retained by parties interested in the construction of the proposed new hotel at Pine Beach, Gull Lake, to conduct their legal matters.

The committee members had left the Clark home at 10:45 p. m. Mr. Clark's last official work in life was the composition of an advertisement last evening which was to have appeared in the Brainerd Dispatch today, informing the public of the need of a modern hotel in the lake region.

Mr. Clark's work in the promotion of the hotel project was typical of his business life here for he worked constantly for the growth of Brainerd and expansion of interests in the lake country.

He had, unquestionably, one of the keenest minds in the law profession in Brainerd. His seemingly unerring judgment in business transactions was sought by many Brainerd people. His reputation as an outstanding attorney was not limited to Brainerd alone for among his clients were many from different parts of the state and out of the state. Although in later years he devoted his work more to commercial law and his business enterprises he achieved fame through his professional work in court rooms, his decisions as counsel and his arguments to juries.

Mal Clark was born in Brainerd on April 19, 1890. He is a graduate of the Brainerd high school and a graduate in law from Notre Dame university, June 13, 1916.

He practiced law in St. Paul and later in Bemidji before starting his practice in Brainerd. He was associated with the late S. F. Alderman first in Brainerd, later practicing alone, until two months ago when Per M. Larson, former Minneapolis attorney, became his associate.

At one time he was named special municipal judge of Brainerd.

His business interests in Brainerd included these with the Crow Wing Oil Co., Lively Auto Co., Alderman-Magban Co., and the Crow Wing Holding Co.

He was an active member of the St. Francis Catholic church, Brainerd Lodge of Elks No. 615, Knights of Columbus, Chamber of Commerce and the Brainerd Country Club.

Mr. Clark was married in St. Paul on January 20, 1915 to Miss Helen Wheelan, of St. Paul. He leaves besides his widow, two children, Jane, 13, Rosemary, 11, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Clark, Brainerd, two sisters, Marie and Jane, and one brother Dr. D. M. Clark, Pine City, Minn.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

BOY SCOUTS PLAN ANNIVERSARY WEEK

Mobilization of All Scouts to be Feature of Week Starting February 8

PROGRAMS ARRANGED

Spectacular Demonstration of Scout Preparedness to Follow Rededication Rites

Boy Scout Anniversary Week will be celebrated this year during the week of February 8th through the 14th. February 8th will mark the observance of the 19th birthday of the Boy Scout Movement in this country. Three events of outstanding importance to the nation will mark the celebration. On the evening of February 8th more than 800,000 Scouts and their leaders will stand at attention and rededicate themselves to the principles of the Scout Oath and Law. On February 9th, in nearly every city and hamlet of the country, Scouts will mobilize to perform a community Good Turn. C.-I., FLOOR STATUS SUBMERGE B. H. S.

STUDES GO DOWN FIGHTING IN ONE SIDED BATTLE

THE LACK OF FLOOR FACILITIES SHOWS IN WEAKENED BRAINERD FIVE

KASCH GIVES ALL SUBSTITUTES CHANCE TO PLAY TO GIVE THEM EXPERIENCE

Staring the situation squarely in the face, the Brainerd high school basketball players from the present outlook have a mighty hard row to hoe if they are to get anywhere in the conference race or tournament this season.

Coch Warren Kasch, at the helm of school athletics, is not to blame. The students are not to blame. One monster and one alone can be blamed for the condition as it exists—the unsurmountable obstacle of lack of floor facilities. It is a condition this year, which it appears, cannot be remedied by the school, or the city.

The Brainerd team took in true blue fashion last evening a severe drubbing from its old rivals, the Crosby-Ironton eagles. The score when that hectic struggle came to a close was 38 to 16. It was just too bad.

Displaying flashes of championship style at few junctures of the game, the Brainerd men fought from the opening whistle a losing battle.

Lack of condition, floor plays and shooting, did more to defeat the Brainerd defense by sinking three baskets in rapid succession.

Breaking were even up and every one of the 200 Brainerd fans in attendance knew what the locals would have done to Crosby last season under those circumstances.

Throwing its heavy charge into the opening minutes of the game, the range boys showed superiority in shooting and breaking through the Brainerd defense by sinking three baskets in rapid succession.

Brainerd came back in a sudden spurge to boost its score four points.

After the first period which ended 8 to 4, Crosby-Ironton knuckled down to their old style of playing, scoring their baskets from close in.

Time and again Brainerd went down the floor to either be stopped as they came to the range guards or lose the ball from the backboard. Dozens of times the locals shot at the range cage and almost as many times the ball skimmed the loop and bounced clear.

Gabriel, Wise, Swanson and Fuller, the four lettermen from last year's team who are back in the traces again this year, teamed up in a few plays that resulted in scores.

Few of the old plays that worked so advantageously last year could be completed last evening.

Apparent that his team stood no chance to overcome the lead piled up against them in the first three periods, Coach Kasch gave each of his substitutes an opportunity to play in the last stanza, thus giving them the benefit of actual competition on a standard gymnasium floor.

Crosby-Ironton has a team this year that will go far in the conference and the tournament.

The Brainerd defense was but a shadow of its former self. The men are unable to cope with the conditions because of no floor space to practice defensive formations.

Crosby-Ironton had little trouble breaking through, thus sinking their baskets from close in.

Next Friday evening Brainerd plays at Little Falls, and the following night will journey to St. Cloud where they will meet the St. Cloud Tech-High five.

The line-ups last night: Brainerd — Wise, Swanson, forwards; Paine, C.; Gabriel, Haultala, guards; subs, Fuller, Halvorson, Foster, Hoffbauer and Geist.

Crosby-Ironton—A. Krueger, Ornstrom, forwards; Chupich, center; R. Krueger, Satovich, guards.

Referee—Jacobson, Little Falls.

CONCORDIA DEFEATS ST. OLAF 36 TO 30

CANZONERI HAS FIFTH ROUND KNOCKOUT WIN OVER SANTIAGO

New York, Jan. 19.—(UP)—Leo Lomski, light heavyweight from Aberdeen, Wash., was back in a position to demand another bout with Champion Tommy Loughran today as a result of his victory over James J. Braddock, hard hitting Jersey man, at Madison Square Garden.

Lomski bounded through ten rounds of fast fighting to win the decision last night. His advantage was so clear that the gallery forgot its usual roar.

Braddock, despite his defeat, is not entirely out of the picture. His blows were harder than those of Lomski, and he stood up well under constant jabbing to the face and body.

Braddock missed several of his famous rights which, if they had landed, might have brought a different ending. Failure to force the fighting was, in a measure, responsible for his defeat.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—Tony Canzoneri, former featherweight champion, stepped a notch forward in the junior lightweight division today, as a result of his fifth round knockout victory over Armand Santiago, hard hitting Cuban.

Canzoneri won from the Cuban last night by concentrating on a

C.-I., FLOOR STATUS, SUBMERGE B. H. S.

STUDES GO DOWN FIGHTING IN ONE SIDED BATTLE

THE LACK OF FLOOR FACILITIES SHOWS IN WEAKENED BRAINERD FIVE

KASCH GIVES ALL SUBSTITUTES CHANCE TO PLAY TO GIVE THEM EXPERIENCE

Staring the situation squarely in the face, the Brainerd high school basketball players from the present outlook have a mighty hard row to hoe if they are to get anywhere in the conference race or tournament this season.

Coch Warren Kasch, at the helm of school athletics, is not to blame. The students are not to blame. One monster and one alone can be blamed for the condition as it exists—the unsurmountable obstacle of lack of floor facilities. It is a condition this year, which it appears, cannot be remedied by the school, or the city.

The Brainerd team took in true blue fashion last evening a severe drubbing from its old rivals, the Crosby-Ironton cagers. The score when that hectic struggle came to a close was 38 to 16. It was just too bad.

Displaying flashes of championship style at few junctures of the game, the Brainerd men fought from the opening whistle a losing battle.

Lack of condition, floor plays and shooting, did more to defeat the Brainerd team than their opponents' play.

Breaks were even up and every one of the 200 Brainerd fans in attendance knew what the locals would have done to Crosby last season under those circumstances.

Throwing its heavy charge into the opening minutes of the game, the range boys showed superiority in shooting and breaking through the Brainerd defense by sinking three baskets in rapid succession.

Brainerd came back in a sudden spurge to boost its score four points.

After the first period which ended 8 to 4, Crosby-Ironton knuckled down to their old style of playing, scoring their baskets from close in. Time and again Brainerd went down the floor to either be stopped as they came to the range guards or lose the ball from the backboard. Dozens of times the locals shot at the range cage and almost as many times the ball skimmed the loop and bounced clear.

Gablon, Wise, Swanson and Fuller, the four lettermen from last year's team who are back in the traces again this year, teamed up in a few plays that resulted in scores.

Few of the old plays that worked so advantageously last year could be completed last evening.

Apparent that his team stood no chance to overcome the lead piled up against them in the first three periods, Coach Kasch gave each of his substitutes an opportunity to play in the last stanza, thus giving them the benefit of actual competition on a standard gymnasium floor.

Crosby-Ironton has a team this year that will go far in the conference and the tournament.

The Brainerd defense was but a shadow of its former self. The men are unable to cope with the conditions because of no floor space to practice defensive formations.

Crosby-Ironton had little trouble breaking through, thus sinking their baskets from close in.

Next Friday evening Brainerd plays at Little Falls, and the following night will journey to St. Cloud where they will meet the St. Cloud Tech-High five.

The line-ups last night:
Brainerd—Wise, Swanson, forwards; Paine, c; Gablon, Haultala, guards; subs, Fuller, Halvorson, Foster, Hoffbauer and Geist.

Crosby-Ironton—A. Krueger, Ornstrom, forwards; Chupich, center; R. Krueger, Satovich, guards.

Referee—Jacobson, Little Falls.

CONCORDIA DEFEATS ST. OLAF 36 TO 30

Northfield, Minn., Jan. 19.—(UP)—Concordia of Moorhead opened its Minnesota college conference basketball season here last night with a 36 to 30 victory over St. Olaf. The Cobbers forged ahead in the final three minutes to eke out their first victory in five years over the Nodaks.

British Taxation
The income tax, which was introduced into the United Kingdom as a war levy by William Pitt in 1798-1799—a duty of 10 per cent on all incomes from whatever source derived, except incomes under £60 a year—was lifted in 1815 and not revived until 1842. A graduated tax on income from certain fixed sources had, however, been levied as early as 1435, and again in 1450.

LOMSKI BOUNDS THROUGH TEN FAST ROUNDS OF FIGHTING

CANZONERI HAS FIFTH ROUND KNOCKOUT WIN OVER SANTIAGO

New York, Jan. 19.—(UP)—Leo Lomski, light heavyweight from Aberdeen, Wash., was back in a position to demand another bout with Champion Tommy Loughran today as a result of his victory over James J. Braddock, hard hitting Jersey man, at Madison Square Garden.

Lomski bounded through ten rounds of fast fighting to win the decision last night. His advantage was so clear that the gallery forgot its usual roar.

Braddock, despite his defeat, is not entirely out of the picture. His blows were harder than those of Lomski, and he stood up well under constant jabbing to the face and body.

Braddock missed several of his famous rights which, if they had landed, might have brought a different ending. Failure to force the fighting was, in a measure, responsible for his defeat.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—Tony Canzoneri, former featherweight champion, stepped a notch forward in the junior lightweight division today, as a result of his fifth round knockout victory over Armand Santiago, hard hitting Cuban.

Canzoneri won from the Cuban last night by concentrating on a body attack in the fourth and fifth rounds. Santiago previously had taken everything Tony could put on his jaw but he withered quickly under the body attack. The knockout came when Canzoneri landed a solar plexus blow.

The Cuban obtained the Canzoneri match as a result of a two round knockout over Joey Sangor, Milwaukee, here a few weeks ago.

That's That!

The teacher said that that that that boy used was correct.
